

The Bartimaeus Institute 2010 in the central coast village of Oak View, CA

February 22-26, 2010

"Ecojustice, Sabbath Economics and Luke's Gospel" with Ched Myers

Co-Sponsored by the Sisters of Notre Dame de Namur

The Institute offers intensive study of scripture and social justice. We will commemorate the fifth anniversary of the martyrdom of Notre Dame Sister Dorothy Stang (right) in Brazil (see www.sndohio.org/dotstang.htm). Reflecting on Dot's work and witness, we will focus on how people of faith can integrate Creation spirituality with liberation ecojustice. We will also study Year C lections from Luke as they relate to economic and environmental justice.

Sr. Dorothy Stang gave her life in defense of rainforests and campesinos.

The Institute runs from Monday 5:00 pm thru Friday noon. Registration: Commuter Fee: $400; residential: $575 (double occupancy), $685 (single occupancy). Academic credit and limited scholarships are available. Space is limited to 30 per Institute. Register thru our website or contact us at: inquiries@bcm-net.org or 323-449-5170.

"Dorothy often spoke about Creation spirituality and liberation ecology. I have Dorothy's book on Hildegard of Bingen, which I took from her room in Anapu after her murder. I recommend this program with all my heart. Dorothy will be in your midst." --former Maryknoll priest David Stang, Dorothy's brother.

"Take up weeping and wailing for the mountains, and lamentation for the wilderness, because they are laid waste so that no one passes through... Both the birds of the air and the animals have fled and are gone..." (Jer 9:10) Left: Marc Chagall, "The Prophet Jeremiah," 1973. Right: An Amazon clearcut.
